An icy wind bites through the stocks, whipped-up from the Wear where shaggs in a frozen dive break black water.

A crick-necked welder bent beneath the boat works with his head in a screen. Flash on her un-named belly; burning her together, section by section.

He crawls beneath to engine room tank top—
in the sump—

into an eighteen inch double bottom.

These Mackems can weld themselves into a steel coffin and seal the lid on afterwards.

The crick-necked welder works with his head in a screen. Flash on her un-named belly; burning her together, section by section.
A MAN SINGING TO A BIRD ON A BICYCLE

MR T.M. RAWORTH

BRITISH PASSPORT

ABOLISH THE PASS LAWS

MR T.M. RAWORTH

BRITISH PASSPORT

ABOLISH THE PASS LAWS

P 499084 D

EVERY FRIDAY INFOLIO8 NOVEMBER 21ST 1986
FRONT: KUBA PICKARD & INSIDE: TOM PICKARD

SUBS: £25/$45 (incl. post.) for 52 issues. 132 Ditton Fields, Cambridge, CB5 8DE U.K.